

Fall 2020

To stay safe during the COVID-19 pandemic, we could not celebrate the graduating class of 2020 together in person. That didn't stop us from recognizing graduates accomplishments in other ways. On the graduation celebration website, congratulatory messages were posted from important leaders—from the university's chancellor and president to representatives from each college and school. The celebration site, also included a list of graduates, and to help celebrate, posters, lawn signs, and GIFs were available. #USaskClassOf2020 was the hashtag used by those posting about the 2020 graduation celebrations.

We are in an unprecedented time, but that does not overshadow the achievements of the graduating class of 2020. In lieu of a graduation program, the following information is the official list of class of 2020 graduates.

CONGRATULATIONS CLASS OF 2020!

UNIVERSITY OF

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

Max Eisen

Honorary Doctor of Laws

Seventy-five years ago, Max Eisen was liberated from a Nazi concentration camp, the only member of his family to survive Auschwitz.

Now 91, for the past three decades he has travelled the country as a public speaker and Holocaust historian, telling his painful personal story of survival and educating students, teachers, law enforcement and other community members about the horrors of the Holocaust and the danger of rising racism and anti-Semitism. A tireless champion of human rights, Eisen has touched the lives of thousands who hear him speak every year, a first-hand witness to one of the darkest times in human history, sharing his story “so others may learn from the past.”

Born in the former Czechoslovakia and raised in an Orthodox Jewish family, Eisen was 15 when he and his family were arrested and sent to Auschwitz, where his parents, grandparents and his three siblings were all killed in the concentration camp. With the help of a Polish doctor, Eisen managed to survive Auschwitz and a 13-day winter death march, until finally liberated from another concentration camp in 1945.

Helped by strangers and assisted by a Canadian Rabbi, Eisen later came to Canada as a refugee in 1949 to start a new life, marrying his wife Ivy Cosman and being blessed with two children, two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Eisen also established a successful business in Toronto, before retiring in 1988 and dedicating his time to travelling coast-to-coast to share his powerful first-hand account of Auschwitz.

Eisen documented his unforgettable story of tragedy and triumph in his book, By Chance Alone: A Remarkable True Story of Courage and Survival at Auschwitz, winner of the 2019 Canada Reads competition. Eisen also committed himself to helping find justice for the millions of victims of the Holocaust, testifying at the recent war crimes trials of two former Nazi SS guards at Auschwitz. Eisen has made the journey back to the former concentration camp dozens of times as a participant in the March of the Living, an educational program that brings students from around the world to Auschwitz each year to learn about the Holocaust.

Eisen has also worked with the Friends of the Simon Wiesenthal Centre, the Canadian Centre for Diversity and Inclusion, and the Sarah and Chaim Neuberger Holocaust Education Centre in Toronto, and regularly does media interviews about his personal tale of surviving Auschwitz.

Joy Kogawa

Honorary Doctor of Letters

From once studying at the University of Saskatchewan (USask) to becoming one of Canada’s most celebrated authors, Joy Kogawa has been honoured for her literary excellence as well as her lifelong contributions to Canadian society.

While living in Saskatchewan, she published her first book of poetry in 1967, titled The Splintered Moon, the start of an award-winning career as a poet, novelist, creative writer and activist that continues to this day.

Born in Vancouver, Kogawa experienced first-hand the internment of 22,000 Japanese-Canadians removed from their homes on the West Coast by the government during the Second World War. That experience was the inspiration to write her most famous work, a celebrated semi-autobiographical novel titled Obasan. The 1981 novel earned the Book of the Year Award from the Canadian Authors Association and named one of the top 100 most important books in the country, by the Literary Review of Canada. By the end of the decade, her book was studied in classes in schools and universities across the country.

Kogawa also worked tirelessly to educate about the plight of Japanese-Canadians in the Second World War and to earn compensation and reparations for those interned. Her work as an advocate and activist, educator and writer in a career now spanning five decades, has earned her some of the country’s highest honours, including made a member of the Order of Canada in 1986 and a member of the Order of British Columbia in 2005. The Japanese government also honoured Kogawa in 2010 when she was made a member of the Order of the Rising Sun “for her contribution to the understanding and preservation of Japanese-Canadian history.”

After the war, Kogawa’s family resettled in Coaldale, Alta., where she finished high school before attending the University of Alberta, the Anglican Women’s Training College, and the Royal Conservatory of Music, later returning to school to take classes at USask.

Her award-winning career as an author continues to this day, with her recent work on the augmented reality game, East of the Rockies—released by the National Film Board in 2019—earning the 2020 Canadian Screen Award for best video game narrative.

Kogawa is a former member of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association board of directors and a member of the Writers’ Union of Canada, and remains a passionate advocate for social change and bringing down barriers to connect all Canadians.

Fred Sasakamoose

Honorary Doctor of Laws

A residential school survivor and the first Indigenous player in Saskatchewan to make it to the National Hockey League, Fred Sasakamoose has been a trailblazer, an inspirational role model, and a passionate supporter of providing opportunities for youth to play sports.

Born on Christmas Day in 1933, Sasakamoose grew up in a log house in Ahtahkakoop Cree Nation north of Prince Albert, skating on an outdoor pond using a willow stick and frozen horse manure for a puck. He would later go on to play 11 games in the NHL, helping break barriers and opening the door for Indigenous hockey players.

Sasakamoose was inducted into the Saskatchewan Sports Hall of Fame in 2007 and became a member of the Order of Canada in 2018, and has received commendations from the Hockey Hall of Fame, the Assembly of First Nations, and the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations. He served as chief and spent 30 years as a band councillor for the Ahtahkakoop Cree Nation, and is now an Elder who teaches youth to hunt, fish and trap, and counsels them about drug and alcohol addiction.

At the age of six, Sasakamoose was one of the 359 children from the reserve taken from their parents and sent to residential schools. He recently testified for the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada about the abuse that he suffered there. One escape for Sasakamoose was hockey, with skills that would take him all the way to the NHL. Named the most valuable player in Western Canada while playing in Moose Jaw in 1954, Sasakamoose signed his first NHL contract with the Chicago Blackhawks—for the modest sum of $6,000—and was called up for his NHL debut on Feb. 27, 1954 on Hockey Night in Canada at Maple Leaf Gardens, after a two-day train ride to Toronto. Sasakamoose would go on to play six seasons of professional hockey, but longed to return home to his family and retired in 1960 and became a community leader for Ahtahkakoop.

A passionate advocate for creating opportunities for Indigenous youth to play sports, Sasakamoose has spent 60 years establishing hockey programs, leagues and camps. He joined the USask community as an honoured guest at the ground-breaking ceremony for Merlis Belsler Place, where he provided a blessing for the arena and an inspirational message that generations to come will benefit from the facility. In 2018, Sasakamoose was featured by the College of Kinesiology as one of nine Indigenous athletes inducted into the Saskatchewan Sports Hall of Fame who were honoured in an interactive display in the Physical Activity Complex.
